Fans of Mission district hotspot Beretta will savor the news that the brains behind the Italian operation have opened a new venture in the heart of the Castro. Located at 16th and Market, Starbally serves California comfort food and attracts an eclectic mix of gay and straight patrons. The open design encourages socializing with those seated around you, and after tasting dishes like the house-roasted porchetta, there is plenty to chat about. Bellies across the city have new reason to rejoice.
